

STANYS Western Section

March Mini-Conference & Exhibit

Thursday March 24th 2011

West Seneca West High School

3330 Seneca Street, West Seneca, 14224

3:30 – 7:00 pm

(Registration 3:30 – 4:00)

Pre-Registration not required

Sessions in all areas of Science

Elementary

Middle School

High School

3-hour Professional Development Certificates

FREE for STANYS members

$5 for non-members

Refreshments will be available

Prizes to be raffled off including

2 Free One Year STANYS memberships – (for non-members only)

1 free membership will be awarded to a Buffalo School Teacher provided by the Daemen College TLQP Project

Small Gifts
Door Prizes

Everyone is Welcome

Check Out These Great Workshops!

- Introduction to KidWind and the KidWind Challenge – Andy Lueth
- Great Lakes in the Classroom – Helen Domske
- Guided Inquiry – Earth's History – Carol Dunbar
- A Brief Introduction to Creating and Using Virtual Fieldwork – Don Duggan-Hass
- Chemistry In-the-Bag Inquiry Activities – Larry John
- An Investigation in Forensic Anthropology – Karen Lester and Lynn Barrett
- Basic Classroom Management for MTS Teachers – Dr. Dennis Scheitinger
- Preparing Students for the ELS Performance Assessment – Rod Doran
- Using Probeware in the Middle School – Mike Jabot & Dot Brown
- Dual Polarization: Coming soon to a Doppler Weather Radar near you – Judith Levan
- A "Measuring in Science" for Elementary Grades 2-4 – Rod Doran
- Paint it Red! Using Technology to Teach Elementary School Science – Patty Muscatello
- Microscope Cleaning & Troubleshooting – Larry John
- Million Mile Meterstick – David Henry
- Introduction to Project WILD & WET Educator Workshops

Invited Exhibitors Include

Educational Innovations
Castle Software
Curriculum Solutions
Fisher Scientific
Glencoe/McGraw Hill
Prentice Hall
Amsco Publishing
Science Kit
Harcourt School Publishers
Reinstein Woods
Key Curriculum Press
Wards Natural Scientific
Globe Pearson Learning Group
UPCO
Holt, Reinehart & Winston

AND MANY MORE!

Questions? Email Sandra George @ sgeorge@frontier.wnyric.org